PLAN TO CRUSH OUT UNIONISM

NEW SLOGAN OF COLORADO CAPITALISTS

Every Person Connected With Labor Union Must Sever Connection With Their Organization or Leave Cripple Creek.

Cripple Creek, Colo., June 9.—"Death to unionism in the Cripple Creek district" is the new slogan of the Citizens' alliance, which has sent a decree broadcast that every person connected with their union must either sever his or her connection with such organization or leave the district.

This, the latest stand of the anti-unionists, was vaguely hinted at two days ago, but the assertion on the part of the alliance seemed so absurd to the three or four thousand unionists in the camp and its enforcement is fraught with so many difficulties that it was not taken seriously.

Tyson S. Dines, a Denver attorney, and one of the executives of the Stratton estate, is here in conference with the Citizens' alliance leaders and it is announced he is preparing a form which will be presented to every merchant and business man and other employers in the entire district, pledging them not to employ any person who is affiliated with any labor union. No person who works for a living will be exempt and absolute annihilation of unionism in this county is predicted by members of the Citizens' alliance and Mine Owners' association. This is considered the most drastic step yet taken by the alliance since it secured the upper hand in the district and its enforcement will affect 3,000 men and women now affiliated with various unions. The unionists assert they will fight the movement to a finish.

General Bell issued a statement to day in regard to the raid on the Victor Record office and the destruction of the new plant, in which he severely condemns the act. He says he is aware the editor, Kyner, was denounced and threatened and accused of selling out when his editorial appeared asking the Western Federation to call off the strike. "The socialist element of the federation," says Bell, "were the ones who took the principal stand in this thing. However, whoever the perpetrators of this crime may be, they will land in the bull pen if apprehended."

Kyner says he does not believe union miners wrecked his office, nor that his editorial was the cause. He had hints of a plan to wreck his office three days before the editorial appeared, and says union men agree with the sentiment of that article and since its publication union men commended his position. Employees of the office who were ordered out of the district by the wreckers declare their intention of remaining here.

The anti-union citizens' alliance committee succeeded in securing the signatures of all but two business houses to the agreement not to employ help of any kind connected with any labor organization. Deputies to day arrested a total of fifty-seven men.

QUETTED DOWN.

Cripple Creek, Colo., June 9.—After a night of intense excitement due to the battle between troops and strikers at Dunnville and wrecking of the Victor Record office, matters have quieted down in this military district and it is generally believed the worst is now over. General Bell will not call for more troops, believing the two companies now on duty and the sheriff and deputies can cope with the small parties of miners scattered among the mountains.

A WILD CHASE.

One of the wild chases in the general hunt that the military is conducting ended in the capture of C. C. Friedley at Thompson ranch. Three Friedley brothers, all miners, had gone southward and as one of them was suspected of having fired the shot that killed Roxie McGee in the riot Monday, the military gave chase. Friedley at first refused to talk, but the soldiers placed a rope about his neck and then told which way his brothers and another man had gone. Friedley was brought to Victor and placed in the bull pen.

Chris Miller, a union leader, member of the Goldfield council, has been captured at Canon City and will be brought back to camp. He is charged with having done some shooting in the Victor riot.

George H. Kyner, proprietor of the Victor Record, whose office and machinery were wrecked last night by a mob, said to day he will establish a new plant as soon as possible. He estimates the loss at $500. Though the Record has been the official organ of the miners' union since the strike began, it has vigorously denounced the assassinations which took place at Independence Monday and has been outspoken in support of law, order and justice.

MILITIA ADVISER.

Denver, June 9.—Gen. Charles L. Cooper, head of the United States army, has been assigned to Colorado as adviser of the organized militia for a period of four years. Cooper came at the request of Governor Peabody and will receive full pay and allowance of his rank.

MANY PERSONS HURT

Heavily Loaded Electric Car Jumps Track While Going at High Rate of Speed.

Mason City, Iowa, June 9.—Twenty-seven people, including several prominent Iowa politicians and a number of old soldiers, were injured in an accident on the Mason City & Clear Lake electric line to day while they were returning to Mason City from the last campfire of the state Grand Army encampment. A trailer on a heavily loaded train jumped the track while going at a high rate of speed and turned completely over. Fortunately a culvert kept the car from lapping upon the passengers who had been thrown from the car and this was all that prevented serious loss of life.

PRIVILEGES FOR EX-SOLDIERS.

Washington, June 9.—The general land office has completed preparation of blank affidavits for use by ex-soldiers who desire to appoint agents to enter land in the ceded Roschad Indian reservation in South Dakota. The old soldiers are the only persons who will be permitted to make entries without being on the ground and it is desired that uniform powers of attorney should be used. Blanks may be secured by writing to the commissioner of the general land office.

BATTLE WITH BANDITS

Ranchmen and Cowboys Sur- round Alleged Train Rob- bers, One of Whom Is Killed.

New Castle, Colo., June 9.—A posse of ranchmen and cowboys came upon three men, supposed to be the Denver & Rio Grande train robbers who dynamited the express car near Parachute Tuesday night, and in the battle which followed one of the pursued was killed. The other two escaped into Garfield canyon and at last accounts were completely surrounded. It is thought escape is impossible. Elmer Chetman, a cowboy, received a slight flesh wound. The dead man was a white man, about thirty years of age, and was identified as J. H. Ross, one of three men who worked several days last week on the Denver & Rio Grande section near Parachute.

APPOINTED TRUSTEE.

Boston, June 9.—In the United States district court to day Atherton N. Hunt, of Boston, was appointed trustee in bankruptcy of the Dr. Green Nervine company. The concern failed recently with Pettibill & Co., advertising agents. Of the $100,000 claims filed $30,000 were filed by newspaper publishers throughout the country.

ASSAULTED AND ROBBED.

Logansport, Ind., June 9.—It was learned here to day Jeremiah Landis, a bachelor, living in Adams township, was last night brutally assaulted and robbed. According to his story, the robbers compelled him to tell where his money was hidden by pouring kerosene on his bare feet and setting fire to it. The robbers have not been captured.

UTAH DEMOCRATS.

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 9.—The six delegates from Utah to the Democratic national convention go unopposed. Four, it is understood, are against Hearst with leaning toward Parker. Two probably will support Hearst. As a compromise between the factions favoring an anti-politician declaration and those opposed it was decided not to adopt a platform and a committee on resolutions was appointed.

REVOLUTION AT AN END.

Washington, June 9.—The navy department to day received a cablegram from Admiral Sigsbee, dated Monte Christi, says: "The custom house here will begin transaction of business June 9. All ports of Santo Domingo are now open to commerce and the revolution is ended."

UNION MINE ORDERED CLOSED

REASON FOR ORDER GIVEN ADJUTANT GENERAL

Men Employed in Mine Branded as Dangerous and Lawless—
Case May Be Taken to the United States Courts.

Victor, Colo., June 9.—Adjutant General Bell, commander of the Teller county district, to day ordered the Portland mine, which employs union men, closed. Bell's proclamation, after reciting that lawlessness, violence and crime have existed in Teller county for several months, gives as reason for closing the Portland mine that it "is and for a long time has been engaged in employing and harboring large numbers of dangerous, lawless men, who have aided, encouraged and given comfort and assistance to those who have been guilty of said crimes and outrages, so that said mine has become, and now is, a menace to the welfare and safety of the good people of said county and hindrance to restoration of peace and good order."

The Portland Gold Mining company through its president and manager, James P. Burns, who is not a member of the Cripple Creek Mine Owners' association, conceded the demands of the union when the strike was inaugurated last August and has steadily given employment to about five hundred men.

CASE FOR UNITED STATES COURT.

Denver, June 9.—It is probable closing of the Portland mine will be the means of reaching the federal courts with a case to test the power of Governor Peabody to vest in the military absolute power in the district declared under martial law. The Portland company is a foreign company, incorporated under the laws of Iowa, and it is stated by eminent lawyers that any act affecting it may be reviewed by the United States courts.

President Burns and his attorneys were in consultation to day and it is said papers are being prepared asking the federal court to restrain the state military authorities from interfering with operation of the Portland mine, that military be withdrawn from the vicinity of his Victor property and that he be allowed to protect his men when they return to work.

The military authorities are credited with saying when the Burns injunction is used for an attempt will be made to arrest Burns himself on the criminal charge of inciting riot. It is not claimed there is ground for the accusation that Burns personally incited riot, the implication being he should be held partly responsible for recent troubles at Cripple Creek because he maintained the unions by giving employment to union miners.

It is announced that the Portland mine will be reopened on terms which will prevent any workmen from securing work without presenting satisfactory working cards from the mine owners' association. General Bell says the mine was closed because of a "military necessity," as the men working in it were contributing to the support of the strikers, thereby continuing the present conditions in the district.

FOLLOWING THE CLOSING OF THE PORTLAND IT was announced the mines will begin to reopen to morrow, non-union mines first and others later, and that business is to be resumed in the district at once. All the miners who want work must first secure a working card from the mine owners' association.

CAMP OF MACCABEES.

Tattle Creek, Mich., June 9.—The great camp of Maccabees this afternoon adopted the county plan of representation allowing one delegate to each 300 Maccabees. It was also decided to do away with semi-annual payments of per capita tax and make it payable in installments at the first six assessments of each year. The great hive of lady Maccabees raised the per capita tax from 50 cents to $1.

RETURNED TO WORK.

Bloomington, June 9.—All but nine Illinois Central boilermakers at the Clinton shops returned to work to day. All strikers at Mattson have returned. A message from the president of the National Boilermakers' union says the strike was unauthorized and the men will be given no assistance.

The daughter Emil graduated there last year. The secretary will be the bearer of President Roosevelt's congratulations on completion by the college of half a century of uninterrupted success. From Iowa Secretary and Mrs. Shaw will go to Chicago to attend the Republican national convention, whence they will return to Washington. On Monday, the 27th instant, the secretary will go to Chester, Pa., where he will deliver an address to the students of the public schools, and from there he will go to Vermont on customs business. Later he will locate his family for the summer at some point on the coast of Maine.

ALLEGED FIRE BUG ARRESTED.

Chicago, June 9.—Charles Hughes, who says he came from New York, was arrested on the charge of being a member of a band of incendiaries who, according to the police and fire departments, have started fires on the northwest side of the city, causing a loss of $100,000. Hughes was seen on a street car by Edward Maher, a fireman, who noticed his hair and eyebrows were singed and clothing looked as though he had been through a few hot places. Hughes attempted to escape as soon as he noticed the fireman watching him, but Maher followed him to the street and arrested him.

NOT RESPONSIBLE

Physician Contends Inebriate Should Not Be Punished by Death for Crime Committed.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 9.—A paper by Dr. T. D. Crothers, of Hartford, Conn., entitled, "Should Inebriates Be Punished by Death for Crime?" aroused considerable interest during the meeting of the section of nervous and mental diseases of the American Medical association to day. Crothers declared the legal theory that inebriation is no excuse for crime and punishment based on this theory as deterrent and the remedy is a stupid blunder, and that an inebriate "should never be punished with death for a crime committed under the influence of alcohol." He held that the "fact of excessive use of alcohol should be accepted as evidence of mental impairment and inability to control acts and conduct."

The section authorized the appointment of a committee to study the question of effects of alcohol on the human system and report at the next convention.

L. S. McMurry, of Louisville, was elected president of the association and George H. Simons, of Chicago, secretary.

WISCONSIN JUBILEE CLOSING HERE.

Lincoln, Neb., June 9.—On application of Bishop Bonacum the supreme court granted a rehearing in his long pending suit against Rev. William Murphy, a priest at Seward. The supreme court recently affirmed the decision of the district court giving Murphy possession of the parish property after his dismissal and excommunication by the bishop. The rehearing is granted on allegation of the bishop that the ruling of the civil courts is in opposition to the ecclesiastical court at Rome.

The next meeting will be held at Danville. The name of the naval militia will be changed to naval reserves.

WOMAN CONFESSES TO MURDER.

Keokuk, Iowa, June 9.—Mrs. Miller, an aged woman, confessed on her deathbed to day that she brained Pleasant Cousins, an old colored man, with a piece of gas pipe in Burlington in 1901. The death of Cousins has been a mystery which the Burlington police have tried in vain to solve. The woman killed Cousins for his money.

BLACK SEA FLEET.

St. Petersburg, June 9, 2:30 a. m.—The Associated Press is informed officially that no negotiations are taking place between Russia and Turkey concerning the passage of the Black sea fleet through the Dardanelles. The Turkish government has affirmed positively its intention to maintain neutrality and observe strictly obligations of the Berlin treaty. While diplomatic circles do not believe in existence of danger in the Balkans, yet it is thought Russia will not consider reduction of the Black sea fleet at this time.

Chicago, June 9.—A special cable received by the News from its staff correspondent at Chefoo says:

"The long-contested attack by the Japanese on Port Arthur began this morning."

"Russian forces around the beleaguered city were reinforced by troops which had garrisoned Dighy and Klu Chou."

"Russian vessels in the harbor with their great guns aided the land forces in repelling the attack. Fighting goes on."

WAR REPORTS.

Tokyo, June 9.—Admiral Togo reports on the night of the seventh he sent eight small torpedo boats to make a reconnaissance at Port Arthur. The boats went far inside the heads and were exposed to Russian fire. One sailor and one petty officer were killed, but the boats escaped unharmed.

Chefoo, June 9.—Chinese arriving from Port Arthur state the entrance to the harbor is still blocked and large steamers are unable to pass in or out. Gunboats and torpedo boats can only effect passage at high tide. The Japanese fleet is bombarding Port Arthur daily from a considerable distance offshore, fearing to attempt closer range fire on account of danger from Russian mines.

Tokyo, June 9.—Official reports show the first section of Tollenan bay has been completely cleared of mines. Sixty-two have been found and exploded. Two Russian ships were found under water, one of which is believed to be the cruiser Boyarin.

St. Petersburg, June 9.—The war office is in possession of information which officials believe contradicts the report of sea and land fighting at Port Arthur and considerable damage to forts, brought by Chinese fugitives to Chefoo. In official dispatch from Rear Admiral Witsoeff, dated June 7, reports the enemy had been bombarding Port Arthur intermittently from sea, but does not mention operations from the land side. The general staff seems certain the enemy's siege guns have not yet been brought up.

Liao Yang, June 9.—Six warships, including one battleship, participated in the bombardment of the coast of Liao Tung peninsula near Klu Chou. They shelled the coast line between Hunda Tung and Babai Chay and Russian scouts near Babai Chay. Later they were joined by eleven other warships. It is possible the demonstration was made with a view of landing troops. The enemy is holding a small pass at Mudenfu, where Russians exchanged shots with Japanese all day Tuesday. Details of the skirmish are lacking.

THE HOST OF GRAND ARMY

Annual Encampment to Be Held in August in Boston.

The annual encampment to be held in Boston the week beginning August 15 now promises to be one of the largest attended gatherings of civil war veterans since the close of the year. The old soldiers begin to realize that they will not be able to attend national encampments many years hence. This makes many of them the more anxious to meet their comrades while they may.

The old commonwealth of Massachusetts, and especially the city of Boston, feel that this is the last opportunity they will ever to entertain this representative class of American making a great effort to have this one of the most memorable encampments of the Grand Army ever held. The department of Massachusetts is bending every effort to make the occasion unique and thoroughly enjoyable by all of those who participate.

The entertainment for the week is to be elaborate. The committees having the matter in charge have broken away from the established customs for the edification of the guests. There will be the usual receptions and camp fires and parades, but in addition there will be some other features that will well repay the comrades who come to see and enjoy. Automobile parades, river carnivals, fish dinners on the shores of Massachusetts bay, surf bathing for those from the interior who have little or no opportunity for such sport, excursions to Lexington, Concord, Plymouth Rock and other places of historic interest make up an outline of entertainment that will tax the time of those who wish to see all.

Relief corps will doubtless take place on Monday evening, the day of the arrival of the greater part of the veterans. On Monday also will be the parade of Naval Veterans and ex Prisoners of War association. On Tuesday the grand parade of the Grand Army will take place. In the evening there will be a monster camp fire in Mechanics' building.

Wednesday the work of the encampment will begin. That evening the visitors will be invited to take trains and go to Waltham to witness one of the most novel spectacles to be seen in this country. On the Charles river at Waltham are some 1,000 canoes. These will be combined in a grand river carnival. This is a form of evening entertainment. The Watch city will be brilliantly illuminated and there will be ample room for the hundreds of thousands of spectators along the banks of the river while the unique and handsome decorations of the numerous crafts will present a fairy like spectacle.

On Thursday, the 18th, the business session will continue. That afternoon the delegates will be taken on an automobile ride. From Boston they will go out through Cambridge, Arlington, Lexington and Concord, and the territory made famous by our revolutionary wars, and along the British line of retreat, which followed those early victories of the American arms. The termination of the route will be at Concord.

"By the rude bridge that arched the flood Their flag to April breeze unfurled Here once the embattled farmers stood

And fired the shot heard round the world."

Returning by way of Sudbury and Newton.

One of the most interesting features of the week will be the evolutions of the "White Squadron." Those who come from the inland cities and states will have an opportunity to see something of Uncle Sam's navy as the secretary of the navy has promised to detail a squadron to come to Boston during the encampment. Arrangements will be made for those who so desire to go out on board these dogs of war and at close range see something of the sea fighting power of the United States.

Boston with its historic interest seems to be a fitting place for the encampment in the history of the Grand Army of the Republic and no one who comes to Boston in August will have cause to regret it. Ample provisions are being made for the accommodation of all. The state has appropriated $50,000, the city of Boston $25,000, and the patriotic citizens are constantly contributing to swell this fund to the end that every emergency may be met. Free quarters will be provided for those who wish them. Those who wish to stay at hotels will not find any advance in rates as the proprietors have already guaranteed to maintain their regular prices. The parade is to be very short, only two miles over the best asphalt pavement through the most beautiful section of Boston. The Hub will be prepared to receive and entertain such an influx of visitors as has hitherto been unknown in the annals of her history. Boston people feel proud that this great event is to be in honor of the veterans of the civil war. They will do their best to show this by the welcome they will extend in August.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

The domestic science department of the Phyllis Wheatley club met with Mrs. Charles Jackson on East Morgan street, with a full attendance. Mrs. Virginia Hammers Wallace, of Texas, was a visitor and addressed the ladies in a very pleasing manner. Mrs. J. H. Brown read an interesting and instructive paper on ice and ice. The ladies were also favored with a paper on cakes by Miss L. D. Smalley, which proved of much interest. The demonstration for the afternoon was orange ice and was conducted by Misses L. Barfit and N. Moore. The next demonstration will be salad and cheese straws, by Mrs. J. McCre and Miss Smalley.

After a most enjoyable time with Mrs. Jackson the meeting adjourned to meet Thursday afternoon, June 23, with Mrs. Thomas Jordan, of South Sandy street.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED.

Cards have been received announcing the marriage, June 22, of Arthur E. Midgley and Miss Helen B. Morley at Grand Rapids, Mich. Mr. Midgley once resided in this city and was division superintendent of the Chicago & Alton railroad. The bride-to-be was quite popular at that time and if as winning now as then, which is doubtless the case, the prospective groom is much to be congratulated.

PROBATE COURT.

In the matter of the estate of Eliza A. Thornbrough, deceased; report of private sale of personal property approved.

REMARKABLY LOW summer tourist rates now in effect via THE ALTON, to points north, east and west.

A FINE TRIBUTE.

As is well known the agricultural college situated at Ames, Iowa, not long since secured the services of W. H. Stevenson, a son of W. S. Stevenson, of this city, a graduate of Illinois college and later of the agricultural college at Champaign, where he was employed until taken away by the people of the Hawkeye state.

A recent number of the Farmers' Tribune, published at Sioux City, Iowa, contains an account of the editor's visit to the agricultural college at Ames. The writer spoke highly of the institution and remarked that while the soil of Iowa was known to be exceedingly fertile it was also necessary to devise means to keep it so, and for that purpose a department of soils has been established at the agricultural college and placed in charge of Prof. W. H. Stevenson. Of the young gentleman and his work the article says:

"Professor Stevenson was reared on an Illinois farm. He is a graduate of an Illinois college. For a number of years he labored in the Illinois university, giving special attention to soil physics, soil fertility and farm crops. Later he was connected with the bureau of soils in the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C. Professor Stevenson's contributions to the agricultural press are read with interest and are widely copied.

"He is particularly strong in organization and farmers' institute work, and it was largely through his efforts that the state drainage convention was called at Ames last winter, and that the Iowa State Drainage association was organized last January. He is at present secretary and treasurer of that association. As an investigator, Professor Stevenson sustains a national reputation, and comes to his field in Iowa well equipped for the work which is before him.

WAS WASTING AWAY.

The following letter from Robert R. Wade, of Salem, Mo., is instructive. "I have been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years. I lost flesh and never felt well and doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." Sold by J. A. Obermeyer, City Drug Store.

For sick headache take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and a quick cure is certain. For sale by all leading druggists.

Jacksonville, Ill., Aug. 24, 1901.—For twelve years I have suffered from sweet diabetes and have spent hundreds of dollars with various doctors, with but little benefit. I was recommended to try a bottle of Texas Wonder, Hall's Great Discovery, and will cheerfully testify to the public that it did me more good than all things else put together and am altogether another man. I have persuaded many of my friends to try it.

JUNE WEDDING

BRILLIANT NUPTIALS AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH

Celebrated Wednesday Evening—Miss Grace Ward Becomes the Bride of Dr. F. H. H. Calhoun—Reception Held at the Ward Home.

One of the most beautiful June weddings that has taken place in recent years was celebrated at Grace M. E. church Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Grace B. Ward became the wife of Dr. Fred Harvey Hall Calhoun. It was a rose wedding and this idea was most beautifully and artistically carried out in the decorations, both at the church and at the Ward home. The decorations were elaborate and at the church the bridal party stood before a bank of palms, ferns, and potted plants, while huge bouquets of roses gave the desired pink and green effect. The church was most brilliantly illuminated and while the large number of guests were assembling, Mr. J. Philip Reed, organist of the church, assisted by Miss Hazel Brown and Miss Carrie Dunlap, violinists, gave a most delightful musical program. The selections played were:

Chant Scrophie Gullmatt
Violin—Madrigal Simonetti
Scotch aria Arr. by Dudley Buck
Violin duet—Serenade Gullmatt
Lullaby Paulkes
Violin—Lied an den Abendstern Wagner
Introduction to Act III Lohengrin

Exactly at 7:30 o'clock the bridal party entered the church to the stirring strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin. They passed down the west aisle. First came the ushers, Mr. Douglas Calhoun, of Chicago, brother of the groom, who was master of ceremonies; Mr. Carl Willis, of the faculty of Illinois college; Mr. Rupert Asplund, of Albuquerque, N. M.; and Mr. Lathrop Ward, of this city. Next came the bridesmaids, Miss Ellen Russel, of Jacksonville, and Miss Mahel Ward, a cousin of the bride, of Bloomington. They were gown in cream net over white taffeta, caught here and there with pink roses; wearing wreaths of roses in their hair and carrying garlands of pink roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Helen Ward, sister of the bride, followed. She wore a handsome dress of cream net over green taffeta (bertha effect) caught here and there with white roses. A wreath of white rosebuds was also a part of her coiffure, and she carried garlands of white roses. Preceding the bride was the flower girl, little Helen Adams, and the page, Master Charles Capps, both prettily gown in white. The former carried a basket of rose petals, which were scattered in the path of the bride. The bride entered on the arm of her father, and wore a magnificent creation of white Philippine junci cloth over white taffeta, with bertha of rose point Brussels lace. Her gown was made entraine, with a long flowing veil. She carried bride's roses.

The groom entered from the east side of the altar, accompanied by his best man, Mr. Earl Hales, of Chicago, meeting the bride at the west aisle, and together they approached the altar. On each side of the altar were the members of the bridal party. The solemn and impressive marriage service of the Methodist Episcopal church was said by Dr. W. F. Short, who had been the officiating minister at the wedding of the bride's mother. The beautiful ring service was used, the ring being carried in the heart of an American beauty rose by the page. At the conclusion of the beautiful marriage service the wedding party left the church by way of the east aisle, while the sonorous tones of Mendelssohn's wedding march pealed forth from the organ in grand effect.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Ward, of this city, and is a young lady whose versatile talents have made her very prominent in educational, literary and social circles. She is a graduate of the Woman's college of this city, and also spent a year or more at Wellesley college. Later she graduated from the literary department of Michigan university, and since graduation, for three years has been at the head of the mathematics department of the high school. She has also written a number of very excellent short stories, which have been readily accepted by a number of the leading magazines. She is a prominent member of the History class and the Rev. James Caldwell chapter of the daughters of the American Revolution, and is a member of the Methodist church. Added to her literary attainments is an attractiveness of manner that makes her a young lady of most charming personality.

The groom is a native of New York and is a graduate of the Chicago university, where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He was prominent in track athletics while in college and was captain of the team in 1898. For several years he was an instructor in this university and received his doctor's degree in 1902. For the past two years he has been professor of physics and geology at Illinois college. During his residence in Jacksonville he has made many warm personal friends and is held in the highest esteem by the students of the college, whose confidence he has won to an unusual degree.

Immediately after the ceremony at the church the immediate relatives, members of the faculty of Illinois college and of the History class, and a very few intimate friends gathered at the Ward home on North Church street, where a most delightful reception was held. The decorations here were most beautiful and arranged with a great deal of taste. The combined effect was most artistic and the scene was one of beauty and splendor. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. John N. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun and the bridal party.

In the parlor the color scheme was green and white, and this effect was secured by a most magnificent bank of flowers, which completely hid the massive hearth and mantel piece. Draped from the portieres that led into the back parlor and hung in graceful mass on each side were large streamers of smilax and white roses. In the back parlor pink and green was the color scheme and here also a most charming effect had been secured by a profusion of pink roses against a green background of smilax and foliage plants. The dining room was most elaborately decorated and here again the color scheme was white and green. The chandelier was almost hidden beneath a mass of smilax and white roses, while beneath, in the center of the table, was a massive floral pyramid, surrounded by brilliantly lighted candle sticks. Rose bowls filled with huge bouquets of roses adorned the mantel piece and the whole effect was indeed one of artistic conception. The guests were most charmingly served by the members of the "H" society, and on each plate was a beautiful rose. The members of the society are Miss Hazel Brown, Miss Carrie Dunlap, Miss Louise Smith, Miss Elizabeth DeLeuw, Miss Edith Adams, Miss Marie Scott, Miss Ruth Fairbank and Mrs. Calhoun. The young ladies were all pupils of Mrs. Calhoun at the high school and the "H" society was organized during the freshman year of the members.

The large number of presents were displayed in the north front room upstairs and the beautiful array of cut glass and silverware were especially noticeable.

Those assisting at the reception were Pres. and Mrs. C. W. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. James Capps, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Capps, Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Pitner, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Kreider, Miss Reon Osborne, Miss Jeanette Capps, Miss Grace Carter, Miss Ida Marsh, Miss Margaret Widenham, Miss Ruth Kinnman, Miss Nellie Singleton and Miss Florence Ward.

Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun left on the 8:54 Wabash train and will be absent from the city six weeks or two months. They will be at home to their friends in September.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. J. N. Ward, grandmother of the bride, Misses Mary and Frances Ward, of Bloomington; Earl Hales and D. D. Calhoun, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Miller, of Chicago; J. A. Bursley, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Mrs. Brooks, of Philadelphia.

EVENING COMPANY.
Mrs. Walter Smith entertained a number of friends Thursday evening in honor of her cousin, Miss Anna Phillips and Miss Crystal Breese, of Canton, Ill. Miss Tyler added to the evening's enjoyment by reciting two selections entitled "Miss Kate Paulina" and "The Call." Light refreshments were served and all passed a pleasant evening.

EXPLOITS OF GEN. FUKUSHIMA

One of the Japanese Army's Men of Iron.

YEAR IN SADDLE ON LONELY TRIP

Once Made a Journey of 5,000 Miles on Horseback, by Emperor's Order, From Berlin Overland to Japan. Temperature Sometimes 60 Below Zero, and He Was Often Frosted.

William Dinwiddie, a staff correspondent of the New York World, sends to his paper from Kobe, Japan, the following sketch of one of Japan's famous officers, Major General Yama-masa Fukushima:

A strong man in the Japanese army is Major General Fukushima, who has the distinction of being the broadest traveled and the best informed man on matters pertaining to foreign armies in the Land of the Rising Sun.

General Fukushima occupies a position nearly similar to that of our adjutant general and bears directly all the executive burdens of the military organization. For this he is well fitted through his long continued official connection with the Japanese army, having been associated with it in every stage of its upbuilding from the very inception of its organization on foreign lines to the present smooth working machine, modeled strongly after the German, but withal partaking of the best from other continental armies and adding finally their own clever adaptations suited to the people and the environment.

As a man Fukushima is a little above the average height of the Japanese, broad shouldered and sturdily built. His hair is iron gray, and his rather heavy features are suggestive of the Mongolian type. However, in conversation his face lights up, and his eyes have a twinkle, seemingly characteristic of most of the active Japanese thinkers and leaders.

General Fukushima is noted for his remarkable memory for details and every day astounds his military associates and subordinates by accurately recounting numbers of men, supplies, ships, contracts, prices and what not relating to the management of a great army. He also knows the geography of most of Korea and Manchuria perfectly, and from his previous travels and campaigns is able to discuss intelligently the disposition which should be made of troops in any particular section to the best advantage strategically.

This man, who now works night and day, with an average of six hours' sleep in the twenty-four, has performed some marvelous feats of travel in years gone by which required a surprising degree of courage and an almost superhuman capacity to withstand physical collapse.

Eleven years ago, when he was military attaché at Berlin, he received public instructions to return to Japan overland, through Russia and Siberia, and secret orders to investigate the military situation in those countries and to be in a position to make exhaustive reports on the physical characteristics of the region, the roads, possibilities of transportation, of obtaining food, and, in fact, everything relating to moving troops for purposes of aggression.

At that time any ordinary man would have felt that such orders put the seal on his death warrant, and it may be that even General Fukushima felt some qualms, though he talks to-day of that journey—over 5,000 miles of empty loneliness, of barren wastes and emerald valleys, of the burning heat of summer and the darkened, sullen cold of winter—with a smile and modest depreciation of the hardships.

It took a year to travel the entire distance on horseback. He left Berlin in the middle of summer, with two horses, the clothes on his back, and such small things as he could readily pack in his saddlebags. The Russian government hesitatingly granted him credentials, which they could not well refuse diplomatically, and after two months and a half of riding through the comparatively densely populated territory of Russia proper he launched out on the lonely 4,000 miles across Siberia, a country unknown to him, except as portrayed in terms of the horrible sufferings and living death of exiles, human degradation and barren blankness.

In this long, silent journey—for he could speak only a few words of Russian—he was passed from station to station by Siberian officials, usually accompanied by a small bodyguard, though often having nothing more than one guide, and on a few occasions absolutely alone during the dreary rides between posts.

It was not until winter came on that his real hardships began, but with the chill of autumn, sleeping on the open, wind swept plains became difficult, and when the frightful rigors of winter closed in and the thermometer fell to 40 degrees below zero, and, on occasions to 60 degrees below, it became a fight against the elements for existence itself.

Advancing on schedule as he did, it was necessary for him to take great risks in going on, and again and again he rode with freezing face and fingers and toes in blinding snowstorms, the party sometimes losing their way so completely as to necessitate their borrowing into snow banks to protect themselves against the piercing winds and cold and waiting for the cessation of the storm.

Now and again their food gave out, and on one occasion they rode forty-eight hours in a starving condition, melting snow with a tallow candle to slake their thirst. At the time the general made this trip the Transsiberian railway was only a magnificent conception, but in a general way he followed the proposed route from end to end.

One of his horses met with a serious accident which necessitated its being killed, but the other safely accomplished the journey and was brought by the general to Japan, where it was carefully looked after until its death a few years ago. The skin now stands stuffed in one of Japan's museums. It should also be noted here that all the travel staid for garments worn by Fukushima on this remarkable journey are on exhibition in a glass case in the military museum near the war temple at Kuden, Tokyo, and it is interesting to watch the attitudes, almost of veneration, taken by the simple country folk as they crowd around the doors and gaze upon these relics.

After the Japan-China war, in which General Fukushima took an active part, he again began official travels for his government, going through the western countries of Asia, and once again at the close of the Peking campaign, during which he distinguished himself as a brilliant fighter and an able field commander, he took a long journey through China, Manchuria and Afghanistan, skirting the Himalayas to the north of Tibet.

All the mountain traveling was done, of course, on the backs of hardy native ponies, and altitudes of 16,000 feet were reached where the vegetation was often so scanty as to afford insufficient forage for the animals. The gentlemanly fanaticism of the region was distinctly related to them racially—and it was only by the greatest display of diplomacy that the party succeeded in completing their journey.

While in the high mountain country the general fell ill with one of the dread pestilential diseases of the orient, and for several weeks his companions despaired of his life. At the most critical stage of the fever this brave man urged the others to proceed, as they were almost without food, saying that the chances were he would die anyway, and it was far more important for them not to endanger the lives of the entire party and thus perhaps lose all the valuable fruits of the expedition.

His fine constitution pulled him through, and, weak and emaciated, he mounted his horse as soon as the racking fever left him, and, by clinging to the saddle, he rode on and to the end of the journey, gaining strength slowly as he traveled, though the food was scarce and unsuited to the needs of an invalid. It is said he has never quite recovered from this terrible experience, but his present unceasing activities seem to belie the statement.

KISSED BY KUROPATKIN.

Russian General's Gallantry to an Old Soldier's Little Girl.

A touching story is told of the Russian General Alexei Nikolaevich Kuropatkin, who is now commander in chief of the czar's armies in the far east, says a Moscow cable dispatch to the New York American. During his overland trip to Harbin his train stopped for a few minutes at the small station of Baranovka.

A large crowd of poor peasants had gathered to greet the popular hero and offered him loaves and amulets. Among these was a pretty little girl in a red hood, who held in her hand a basket of eggs. The general called her over to the car window and told her that he would be very glad to accept her gift. The girl refused to take any of the money which the general offered her, and Kuropatkin then lifted her in to the car and kissed her, asking her name.

She replied that it was Kilmoff and that her father had been the general's orderly when he served under Skobelev at Plevna. Hearing that the old soldier was employed as watchman near the station, the general sent for him and presented him with a gold piece, saying, "If the soldiers I am going to command are only as brave as you were at Plevna there is no fear for Russia."

What We Are Coming To, In a few years we shall read epigrams like this, says the Portland Oregonian:

Here Lies JOHN PITTSBURGH SKIBO SMITH, Who was Born in a CARNEGIE TOWN, Educated in a CARNEGIE INSTITUTE, Studied in a CARNEGIE LIBRARY, At the Age of 30 He Became a CARNEGIE HERO And Has Now Gone to Be With CARNEGIE.

Happy Days. Oh, the hours of wild elation that have come upon the nation Since the good old baseball season blossomed out in glad array! How we're reveling in cessation of each duty and vacation, Giving every threadbare reason from our tasks to get away!

In our wild intoxication we have sacrificed relation— Sisters, cousins and grandmothers, most to numerous to state— And each trifling obligation that exists in every station We have passed along to others while we watch the Glants' fate.

How our pulses bound and tingle as with thousands we commingle On the streets—If we have money—or the "blancherettes!" How we go in droves or single where the soda glasses jingle And perch on the benches, sunny, where we best can see the sight!

How we foster laryngitis and acquire encephalitis Through our long continued howls and that capture none can check, While the pants are being gastritis and, of course, appendicitis. As we watch the other fellows get it safely in the neck— Urania M. Sheldon in New York Times.

POLITICS IN JAPAN.

Constitution Is Framed on the Lines of Germany's.

CABINET DEPENDS ON THE LORDS

Without Support of the House of Peers, It Cannot Pass Bills—Count Yamagata the One Man Able to Control the Peers—House of Representatives Gaining in Power.

The history of the slow formation of parties in Japanese politics, coupled as it is with the outbreak of the present war and the fall of Marquis Ito from political power, forms one of the most interesting stories of modern Japan, says John F. Ross, the Tokyo correspondent of the Chicago News.

Japan's constitution is framed after the German constitution because the German constitution preserves to a great degree the influence of the sovereign in political life. The cabinet under the Japanese constitution looks to the mikado and not to the house of representatives for its support. It does not seek the favor of the people, but the good will of the sovereign.

The influence—indeed, the very existence—of party, therefore, in the Japanese parliament is due to the tendency of the individual to develop along modern lines of government rather than any place occupied by party by virtue either of the institutions of the country or the new form of government adopted.

Take the present Japanese government. It represents not the electoral vote of the people, but the victory of the two great clans of Japan, the Satsuma and Choshu, those clans which were prominent in the restoration of the power of the emperor. Their rule by virtue of their aristocracy.

The Satsuma and Choshu clans originated in the south of Japan at the strait of Simanoseki. The Satsuma clan was south of the strait, the Choshu north. The Satsuma clan produced the great soldiers of Japan, and the head of the clan is now Admiral Yamamoto, minister of the navy. The Choshu clan produced such statesmen as Ito and Kodama.

The house of representatives cannot force a minister to resign—that is to say, theoretically it cannot—because the ministry can theoretically dissolve the house of representatives as many times as the house fails to support it. The cabinet seeks the favor of the sovereign. As long as it has his support, it can according to the constitution continue to rule. Curiously enough, the discretion of the sovereign prevents a serious or permanent breach between the representatives of the people and the government.

However independent of the house of representatives the cabinet may seem in theory, in practice the house is gaining more power. The cabinet may dissolve the house a number of times, but if on re-election the people support the action of the house the emperor is sure to dismiss his cabinet, saying that a cabinet that does not retain the support of the people cannot have his confidence.

With the house of peers it is different. Without the support of the upper house the cabinet can pass no bills. Moreover, the cabinet cannot dissolve the house of peers. It is of the highest importance that some one in the government should be able to carry the house of peers, and, in the present government, Count Yamagata is the one man in Japan who is able to control the house of peers. Therefore the government has need of him.

In the house of peers there are no parties, only spheres of influence or cliques depending entirely on the personality of leaders, but in no way on political principles. The theoretic has so little hold on the Japanese people that parties founded on political doctrines are exotic plants.

Marquis Ito some years ago conceived the idea that a strong party organization in the house of representatives was the one thing that would benefit Japan and put the government on a more democratic basis. He organized, therefore, that great heterogeneous party, the Seikai. But after having organized it he found it very difficult to manage. Still, with his great acumen as a politician he might in time have been able to control this big party if unforeseen opposition had not arisen.

Marquis Ito is called in Japan "the eight faced." His friends put it that he was trained in the old days of exterritoriality and is very timid in international affairs. His enemies say that he combines with his great ability a mind that changes with each political wind.

The fact is that Marquis Ito, seeing the growth of power on the people's side, determined to control not only the imperial will, but also the house of representatives. Vainly ambition proved his fall. He lost both. He had the ear of the emperor and also was at the head of this great party of the people. His plan was to play off one against the other, control the cabinet and be the real ruler of Japan. But revolt came from both sides.

The Seikai party showed hostility to the imperial plan and would not respond to the tight rein of Marquis Ito. At the same time the emperor, influenced by the publicity sent for Ito and informed him that he must continue himself to playing one part. Either he must resign his position as leader of the Seikai party or he must lose the royal ear. Marquis Ito resigned the leadership of the Seikai and left naturally at the emperor's feet much of his influence over the emperor.

PANAMA CANAL ROUTE WORK

Carl Grunsky Says Machinery Will Be Used to Save Labor.

Carl Ewald Grunsky of San Francisco, member of the Panama canal commission, which recently arrived at New York from the isthmus, thus described to a New York Tribune reporter the visit of the commission to the isthmus: "It was simply a tour of inspection that each of the members of the commission might become familiar with the physical conditions of the canal route. It should be understood that the route of the French canal is scoured all the way across the isthmus, and though there is a growth of green over many stretches that have been long neglected, the pioneer work, that of removing the primeval tangle of tropical growth, has been accomplished."

"My reason of the fact that the railroad parallels the canal route it was possible to traverse much of the course by sticking to the railroad. Side trips of exploration of streams were made in canoes, and at times all the members of the commission walked. "Probably six to seven hundred men are at work, chiefly on the Culabra cut, where all that is done will count for progress, whatever plan as to the level of the canal summit may be adopted by the commission. I was agreeably surprised by the climate and indications as to healthfulness. The sun's rays are now nearly vertical on the isthmus, but the heat was not oppressive. There is very little sickness, and when proper plans are perfected for the disposition of debris, sanitation and pure water supply I believe the work on the canal can be prosecuted with a very low mortality. Of course the conditions cannot be so favorable as in a more northern latitude, and for that reason undoubtedly contractors or the commission will employ all the machinery that can be made effective and reduce the number of men to the minimum."

"The work on the canal will begin as quickly as possible and will be pushed at all seasons of the year, though of course the dry season will permit the largest measure of accomplishment. Construction work involving the control of the Chagres river may be unavoidably suspended during the wet season."

SEOUL PAST AND PRESENT.

Picturesque Site of the Capital of Korea.

Seoul, the capital of Korea, is a walled city of nearly a quarter of a million inhabitants, about a third of whom live in extensive extra mural suburbs, says H. G. Ponting in Harper's Weekly. The wall is pierced by eight gateways of massive stone, each with a pagoda shaped tower of one or two stories above it. The nearest of these to the railway station is the west gate, "the Gate of Bright Ambition," and it is by this portal that almost every visitor enters the capital of the Hermit Kingdom. The name of the city, by the way, is pronounced precisely as we would pronounce the female pig, with an I added—i. e., Sow. I have never heard a Korean pronounce the name in any other way.

The word means "capital," nothing more. But if there is small beauty or originality about the name of the city there is great beauty in its location, for anything more strikingly picturesque than the site of the Korean metropolis would indeed be difficult to find. The city stands in a little valley almost surrounded by rugged, corrugated peaks. High along the top of this mountain ridge runs the city wall. Deep into the gullies it dips, rising now and again to scale the steepest slopes and crown the summits of the loftiest pinnacles. Inclosed within this snake-like barrier is such a strange contrast between wretched hovels and splendid palaces, purposeless loaves and hurrying crowds, broad streets and labyrinthine alleys, slops cleanliness and unspeakable filth, as I doubt could be equaled elsewhere on earth.

Along several of the main streets are trolley lines, and every few minutes a modern American electric car whirled past us, well patronized by Koreans, both men and women.

Seoul of the past is fast becoming extinct. A modern red brick building, headquarters of an electric company, rises in the center of the town, and from its tower stately churches and legation buildings can be seen towering above the squat houses of the natives.

Onions From Nile Lowlands. "It does seem like carrying coals to Newcastle for us to import staple vegetables when Philadelphia is in the center of an agricultural community," said a produce man recently to a Philadelphia Record reporter, "but we are now getting onions all the way from Egypt, and from Ireland and Scotland are coming large quantities of potatoes. For years onions and potatoes have come to us from Bermuda, but merely because the season there is further advanced than ours. Onion raising in Egypt is practically a new industry, following the reclaiming of the lowlands along the Nile, where the soil is exceedingly rich. They have the cheapest labor in the world out there, and even with the cost of shipping they can send us their vegetables and make a profit on them."

Birds That Presage Disasters.

During all the winter flocks of strange birds have been observed in the central Kansas region. Mrs. Alice M. Munger of Manhattan has traced them out, says the Kansas City Journal. They are the Bohemian waxwings, wanderers who pass their winters sometimes in one country and again in another. Their nesting ground is in Lapland, and they come south only at long intervals. In olden times their presence was regarded as foreboding war or pestilence.

CHAMPION FAST TALKER

Railway Clerk In Baltimore Claims This Honor.

PREPARED TO DEFEND THE TITLE

Lloyd Conway Says He Can Pronounce "Understandably" 55,000 Words an Hour—Gave a Remarkable Exhibition of Rapid Reading. Has a Voice of Wonderful Range.

"I claim the championship as the most rapid talker in the world and am prepared to defend the title against all comers."

This is the deft launched by Lloyd Conway of Baltimore, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press. The terms of the contest are to be rapidity of utterance, clearness of pronunciation and endurance.

The claimant to this unique honor is a clerk employed in the auditing department of a prominent railroad. He declares his ability to correctly and "understandably" speak 55,000 words an hour, ten hours at a stretch and to maintain this speed for ten consecutive days. As a side statement Mr. Conway says he has reached the superlative speed of 65,000 words for one hour, a high water mark of 1,081 words a minute or eighteen a second.

Mr. Conway is no crank seeking notoriety. He simply says that nature has endowed him with a gift which has been cultivated. His duties in the office are, in the main, to call off bank checks, payrolls, bills of lading and the hundreds of documents that must be checked over by the auditor's clerks. When this work was assigned to the young man he resolved to make a specialty of the work. He has demonstrated that his gift has a practical side, for he does the work of three men—that is, he calls off three different sets of vouchers with sufficient rapidity to keep three expert clerks busy checking, and his fellow clerks say he will not average one error a month.

On the night of Feb. 1 last Mr. Conway gave an exhibition of his powers to a party of professional men, and the result of his performance was the issuance of his sweeping challenge. He had taken from the office a large number of canceled pay checks, each one of which was written by a different hand. From a throat that swelled and reeled with marvelous motion the words came like bullets from a Maxim gun. At first it was utterly impossible, except to the three clerks from the railroad office, familiar with his work, to distinguish a word. By degrees, however, the ears of the novice listeners became attuned, and before Mr. Conway had finished there were few in the room who could not follow him. His performance, including the handling of the checks, occupied exactly six minutes and seven seconds, or over 510 words per minute.

Mr. Conway next picked up a book printed in long primer type—one of Ingersoll's lectures, for the reason, as Mr. Conway frankly admitted, that the orator used but the simplest words. In the thirty minutes of the test Mr. Conway read fifty-five and one-half pages of 447 words each, a total of 24,808 words, or 827 per minute. During all that rapid fire of agnosticism Mr. Conway never faltered and his voice was as strong at the close as when he began.

Mr. Conway, who is a performer upon violin and organ of ability, astonished his hearers by demonstrating that his voice had a range of just one note short of four octaves. Sending himself at the organ, he struck the F below double C. Then, like a subterranean rumble, came from his chest a corresponding note. In succession he followed the notes past three octaves and then on up to E flat.

In appearance, Mr. Conway, who is thirty years old, conveys the impression that he is of rather a delicate constitution, but that suspicion does not attach to his lungs.

SHELL-TO STUPEFY ARMIES.

Hungarian Scientist Invents a Gas Charged Shell.

A Hungarian scientist has invented a shell which on bursting liberates a gas warranted to stupefy all who breathe it, says a Vienna dispatch to the Philadelphia Public Ledger. When such a shell bursts between decks on a battleship the crew will lie down to sleep and awake perhaps to find themselves prisoners in a hostile port.

Scientifically speaking, it is entirely possible that this gas charged shell will do all that its inventor claims. He is now in communication with the Japanese government.

Such a shell would revolutionize warfare. The hospital corps would become the most important branch of the service and would need to be enormously increased in order that prostrated combatants could be removed from the field and restored to consciousness.

Spellbinders For Maine.

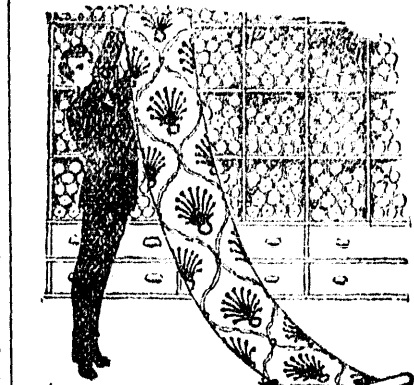

Some of the Maine representatives in the house are cleverly utilizing the bracing atmosphere of the coast to help along their campaign, says the Washington Post. Several house Republican orators have been invited to Maine for the month of August. Every facility is promised them in securing comfortable quarters for themselves and families. But they are also invited along late in the month to deliver speeches in the state campaign, which will conclude the second Monday in September. As most of the state campaigns do not begin until after the Maine election, several orators are now looking for cottages on the Maine coast.

MATHENY & LLOYD.

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, June 9.—Wheat—The market opened firm on wet weather and to advance at Paris, July being up a shade to 1.86 1/2. A report from Tennessee stated that the crop would be the largest in years. Operators realized that new wheat would soon be coming on the market and with this in view many were disposed to take the selling side. However, the more favorable reports as to crop prospects brought out selling orders from some large holders. The Kansas report was quite bearish. Continued improvement was reported from the spring wheat territory. Further market news and prices steadily declined. Covering by shorts caused a rally near the close, but the tone remained easy. July closed 1/2 cent lower, September 1/2 cent, Liverpool unchanged to 1/2 cent lower. At the seaboard eighteen boat loads were taken.
Corn—There was moderate trade, chiefly local, with feeling somewhat unsettled. There was strength early, due chiefly to rains and reports of smaller country receipts, shorts being principal buyers. Later prices receded with wheat and on larger estimated receipts for tomorrow. The close showed July up 1/2 cent, December a fraction better and September 1/2 cent higher, Liverpool unchanged to 1/2 cent lower. On the coast four boat loads were taken.
Oats—Oats were fairly traded in and prices receded 1/2 cent after a small advance, but the close was strong and at a net gain of 1/2 cent. July, September and December were up 1/2 cent, Liverpool up 1/2 cent and there was good buying of July by shipping houses and of September by commission houses.

Wheat, bids	36.00	37.00
Corn, bids	102.00	125.00
Oats, bids	131.00	139.00

Cattle—Receipts, 7,000. Supplies are increasing, but are not excessive so far, running short of a year ago. Few good, fat, corn fed are being marketed, for such heaves are scarce nearly everywhere and there are too many grassy lots, the latter having declined as fast as good heaves advanced. To day the market was active at strong prices for good, other descriptions about steady. Good to prime, $5.00 to $5.50; poor to medium, $4.50 to $5.00; $5.00 to $5.50; cows, $4.50 to $5.00; Texans, $4.50 to $5.00.
Hogs—Receipts, 21,000. Prices have been advancing quite fast for the past few days under influence of active local demand, but there was reaction to day, although receipts are much smaller than last Thursday. Prices were about 50c to 1.00 lower, bulk of sales being at $4.75 to $5.00. Mixed and butchers, $4.75 to $5.00; good to choice, heavy, $4.75 to $5.00; rough heavy, $4.50 to $4.75; light, $4.50 to $4.75.
Sheep—Receipts, 8,000. There was fairly active general demand at about 10c to 15c lower. Sheep, $3.75 to $4.00; lambs, $5.00 to $5.50.

Cattle—Receipts, 5,000. Market steady to strong. Beef steers, $4.10 to $4.30; stockers and feeders, $3.75 to $4.00; cows and heifers, $3.40 to $3.75; Texas steers, $3.25 to $3.50; hogs, $4.00 to $4.20. Market steady to a shade lower. Range, $1.50 to $1.75.

LIVERPOOL MARKET.

Oats—Receipts, 3,000 bu. Exports, 5,000. Spot steady; mixed, 45c to 47c; white, 46c to 48c; clipped white, 46c to 48c.

FINANCIAL MARKET.

New York, June 9.—Light speculation for an advance in prices which was in evidence yesterday was somewhat discouraged to day and gave little show of enthusiasm. The poor market offered for taking profits yesterday afternoon served to discredit upward movement. Reports from London and Paris to show some thing like a redundancy of the capital at the great financial centers of the world with corresponding apathy of speculative and even of investment demand which seems to point to a world-wide cause. Here in New York a halt in the advancing tendency of prices threw the market back into apathetic conditions. The New York Central's statement of May gross earnings showing a falling off of $42,500, or more than 5 per cent from the previous year, was a reminder of an unpleasant fact in the situation. Closing quotations:
Money on call, easy; highest at 1 1/2 per cent; lowest and closing bid, 1 1/4; ruling rate, last loan and offered, 1 1/4. Time loans easy and dull; sixty days at 4 1/2 to 4 3/4; three months at 4 3/4 to 4 1/2; six months at 4 3/4 to 4 1/2; prime paper at 3 1/2 to 4 1/4.
Exchange fairly steady. Demand at 48 1/2; sixty days at 48 1/2; three months at 48 1/2; six months at 48 1/2.

The old way of taking pepsin, bismuth, etc., to cure dyspepsia is all wrong. They may be put up in tablets or in liquids, the result is just the same. The object is to create artificial digestion, but this does not make a cure. Stop taking the pepsin, etc., and have your dyspepsia or indigestion back again. People use cocaine or opium for nervous troubles and sick headache, it does not cure. Stop taking the drug and the pain and distress return. The only Common Sense Method is to drive out of the system the cause of dyspepsia and sick headache by cleaning the stomach and bowels and at the same time using a medicine that will act upon the liver. This forces through the glands of the stomach the digestive fluid that nature intended. In this way you cure dyspepsia. A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Afterthought of a Street Arab to a Kind Hearted Actor.

Laurence D'Orsay, the English actor who recently played an engagement here, finds much to interest him in the American small boy. While strolling along Chestnut street one afternoon with J. Fred Zimmerman he met with a ragged street arab who led a disreputable yellow dog by a string. Mr. D'Orsay immediately became interested in the boy.

"I suppose you would like to see the show?" he said, with a mischievous twinkle in his eye. "I'll make a bargain with you. Give me your dog and I'll see that you are presented with a puss."

"Can't see it that way, mister," said the boy. "How do I know you'll take good care of me pup?"

Mr. D'Orsay laughed heartily, and Mr. Zimmerman that night saw that the boy was furnished with a front seat in the gallery.

The next afternoon the actor again came across the boy and the canine.

"Well, my son," he said in his kindest manner, "how did you like the show?"

"Iuh!" was the laconic reply. "Glad I kept me dog."—Philadelphia Press.

CATHEDRAL OF RIVAL SECTS

Bishop Satterlee's Plan to Harmonize Opposing Groups.

Bishop Henry Y. Satterlee and the diocesan conference of the District of Columbia are planning to harmonize rival creeds and to weld opposing sects into one great Christian family, who, their differences forgotten, will remember only the main principles of their religion, on which all are united, says a Chicago dispatch. They hope to accomplish this by building a big national cathedral in Washington.

Taylor E. Brown of Chicago, president of the National Church club, is now actively engaged in developing plans to this end, and it is through him and his organization that the heads of the Episcopal church hope to bring their plans to maturity and success.

"So far the idea is still in the making," he says, "and the actual form it will take in bricks and mortar or carved stone must depend on the generosity of the public. It may be the committee in charge will find it advisable to restrict itself to a $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 building, or it may be able to spend five times as much. In any event the cathedral when erected will probably be a Gothic structure and one of the finest of its type in the land."

The gist of the plans at present is the building of a national cathedral in Washington, which, while specifically Episcopal and the national home of members of that faith, will also be managed on broad enough lines to admit pastors of other denominations and provide a pulp from which they may exhort members of their denominations.

The idea originated with Bishop Satterlee two years ago and was referred by him to the diocesan conference, which at once gave its hearty approval and appointed a committee to push the scheme and gather contributions to a building fund. A site has been obtained in Washington on which stands the famous Peace cross, around which services have long been held. The nucleus of the $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 cathedral will cost has partially been pledged by individual Episcopalians throughout the country.

The cathedral is expected to be in the popular mind the leading church of the faith and the national home of its adherents.

PLAYED GOLF

Interesting Contest on the Country Club Links Wednesday Afternoon.

There were many players on the links yesterday, most of whom participated in a "blind bogey" contest.

Howard Dean won the prize in pair of gloves donated by C. C. Phelps in the first contest.

Dr. George Dismore was the winner of the prize in golf cap presented by Frank Byrns in the second contest.

The players were allowed to take their own handicaps. The scores:

First contest—	Gross.	Net.
Sanders	52	15
Byrns	41	20
Waddell	42	20
Dean	58	15
Dismore	56	12
Leffert	51	6
Osborne	49	3
Baldwin	61	18
Blatt	61	13
Hayden	62	11
Hopkins	66	15

Denotes winning score.

Second contest—	Gross.	Net.
Byrns	55	20
Leffert	41	6
Blatt	51	13
Waddell	59	20
Dismore	53	12
Luttrell	47	4
Dockenhull	52	8
Osborne	49	4
Hayden	60	14

Denotes winning score.

The best gross score was made by F. L. Ledford with 41 strokes. The players will no doubt play much more now that the weather has apparently settled. The day was ideal for golf and the fact that the scores were very poor is principally due to the fact that there has been but little practice. Some tall grass on the course hinders play somewhat, but by next week the course will be in fine shape.

The confidence of most women is something worthy of admiration. No matter what the emergency is from falling in love with a dude sport to marrying a millionaire she generally rises to the occasion and gets there with both feet.
